

AIDA 2016 - The 2016 Australian Indigenous Doctors' Association's annual professional development and networking event – A journey of strength and resilience

EOI for Workshops:

The theme for AIDA 2016 is A journey of strength and resilience, highlighting the strength and resilience that has supported and continues to be required for building effective collaborative relationships across the medical education and training continuum. This work has brought about real change in the medical landscape, and laid the foundation for the continued journey towards health equity and cultural safety for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people

AIDA 2016 will bring together members, guests, speakers and partners from across the sector to renew their commitment to growing the number of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander medical students, doctors, academics and specialists, and to reflect on the importance of the strength and resilience required to do so.

We would like to invite your membership to consider delivering a workshop!

AIDA has a long history of collaborating with medical colleges to deliver workshops at our events and we would be interested to hear from you regarding ideas for AIDA 2016. Workshops can be a collaboration of several medical colleges and should focus on a theme relevant to medical students and practitioners. In 2015 for example, ACEM and RANZCP jointly developed and presented on 'Ice and drug psychosis' and RACS presented a workshop entitled 'JDocs: Supporting doctors aspiring to a career in surgery'.

If ACEM members have any questions about developing a workshop for AIDA 2016, please contact AIDA on aida2016@aida.org.au
