ABORIGINAL, TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER AND MĀORI HEALTH RESEARCH AWARD

2019

This grant is open to ACEM Fellows and trainees who have published a research paper or conference presentation to be most significant in the field of emergency medicine as it relates to Aboriginal, Torres Strait Islander or Māori health. The authored article is to be within its first year of publication and published during the immediately preceding financial year (1 July to 30 June), or presented at a conference during the immediately preceding financial year (1 July to 30 June).

Each application must be accompanied by a copy of the article or conference presentation.

The award may be made to the author or presenter of research which, in the opinion of the ACEM Foundation, makes a significant contribution to emergency medicine as it relates to Aboriginal, Torres Strait Islander or Māori health.
